FILIPINO BOY SPY WILL BE PARDONED.

General MacArthur to Give Liberty to an Intrepid Ten-· Year-Old.

Manila, Dec. 22 -- General MacArthur will celebrate Christmas by pardoning a 10-yearold Filipino boy, who, but for his extreme youth, would long since have been shot as a spy. This child, a native of the Island of Negres, had the run of the American diers. Occasionally he would disappear for RICH AND WELL, diers. Occasionally he would disappear for a day or two. Finally these absences excited suspicion, and, after a company of troops had been led into ambush, the lad was arrested as a say. Incriminating papers were found upon him and he was sent to Billitid Prison.

What to do with him was a problem which General MacArthur has finally solved by ordering his release. This act of clemency follows more than a score of hangings, the victims being native outlaws, found guility by the military tribunal of murder and pillage. Three of these natives were concerned in the murder of A. B. Wilson, superintendent of the Manila Waterworks. The motive underlying this crime was rebbery. Mr. Wilson was way-laid while carrying $1.50 out of the waterworks to pay the workmen, and the handite, not content with taking the money, murdered him. The body, when found, showed evidence of mutilation. Eight men were arrested, but only three were convicted at the trial.

lesteatoma may lead to disease of the brain. In fact, my patient did have abscesses.

The case by this time was so grave that all known methods had been tried unavallingly. I was forced to invent new methods, which have, fortunately, succeeded. These were two in number.

The first was to introduce a small gold plate into the ear, fashiened into the required shape. This was placed between the ear drum and the chain of small bones which transmit, the vibrations to the internal ear. This improved the patient's hearing so much that she could hear the ticking of a watch, semething she hadn't heard for years.

The second new method was to replace the destroyed portions of the typanum or ear drum by myringeplastic means. Here again I inserted small gold plates. This was tried only after every known method had been used in vain.

Two months ago the patient came to Vienna for the continuation of her treatment, which I have now carried to an unexpecied point of success.

Tavalumble possibilities for the treatment of ear trouble and deafness in the future are now opened out. My patient, I may add, gave me every assistance that docility, resolution, intelligence and fidelity could afford.

"When shall I begin this? As soon as I finish up some work here in connection with my books; maybe in two months.

Must Feel the Song.

"To be effective in singing men must sing from the heart, just as they pray from the heart. A man should pray before he sings. You know, of course, that my most effective song. "The Ninety and Nine," was song before the must was written. I had torn the poem from a Scotch newspaper while Moody and I were on our way to Editburgh, and the first night we were in Edinburgh and the first night we were in Edinburgh were in the clipping on the organ, closed my eyes and said, "Lord, help me," and as I prayed I placed my fingers on the keys and the must came to me. That's what I mean by saying that prayer should precede singing.

Asked if the work of Moody and Sankey would be taken up again, Mr. Sankey replied: "It is too soon to say when it will be done. But God will call for some man to continue that work. So far as I am concerned I shall always be in the work one way or another."

Then Mr. Sonkey talked about preaching generally, "I believe," he said, "the gospel must be tenderly preached to have power. I don't believe in any other sort of preaching.

"And the same is true of singing. And don't believe in any other sort of preaching.

'And the same is true of singing. And you can say for me that the old-fashkoned sort of singing, such as I learned when I was a boy, is the sort of music the churches should have, if they expect any good from singing. I don't believe in the new-fashgled church music, with professor this or professor that as a leader. The church should not try to compete with onesa. I am not saving anything against opera, tot the church is not the place for it.

"I wish the churches of the country would return to the old-fashkoned singing schools for their music.
